Staenberg-Loup Jewish Community Center Hires Jared Blitz as New Fitness and Wellness Manager

DENVER, Colo., July 31, 2017 – The Staenberg-Loup Jewish Community Center (JCC Denver) just hired Jared Blitz as the facility’s new Fitness and Wellness Manager. In this role, Jared will oversee personal training, pilates, massage and the implementation of center-wide integrated wellness programming along with day-to-day operations.

“We are thrilled to add Jared to our team at the JCC Denver’s Fitness and Wellness Center,” said Mark Siebert, JCC Denver’s director of fitness and membership. “Jared brings with him over a decade of teaching and mentoring experience in the exercise science field, along with experience with the launch and implementation of medically integrated programming. With Jared’s experience in the health and wellness industry, the JCC Denver has a lot to look forward to in the upcoming months and years.”

Prior to joining the Staenberg-Loup Jewish Community Center, Jared was an adjunct professor of Exercise Science at Mesa Community College in Mesa, Ariz. as well as the Fitness Center Supervisor at Mesa Community College’s Department of Exercise Science. Jared has a Bachelor of Science and a Master of Liberal Studies from Arizona State University.

The Staenberg-Loup Jewish Community Center Fitness and Wellness Center offers a 10,000 square foot facility complete with personal trainers, instructors and a plethora of classes for the community as well as sports leagues and an aquatics center with indoor and outdoor pools. The Staenberg-Loup Jewish Community Center is located at 350 S. Dahlia St. in Denver, Colo. For more information, visit www.jccdenver.org or call (303) 399-2660.
